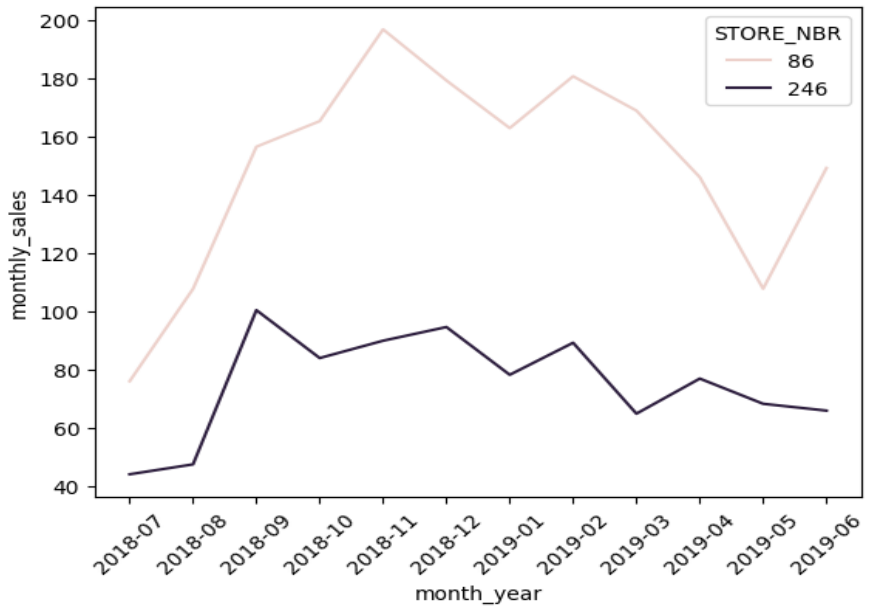
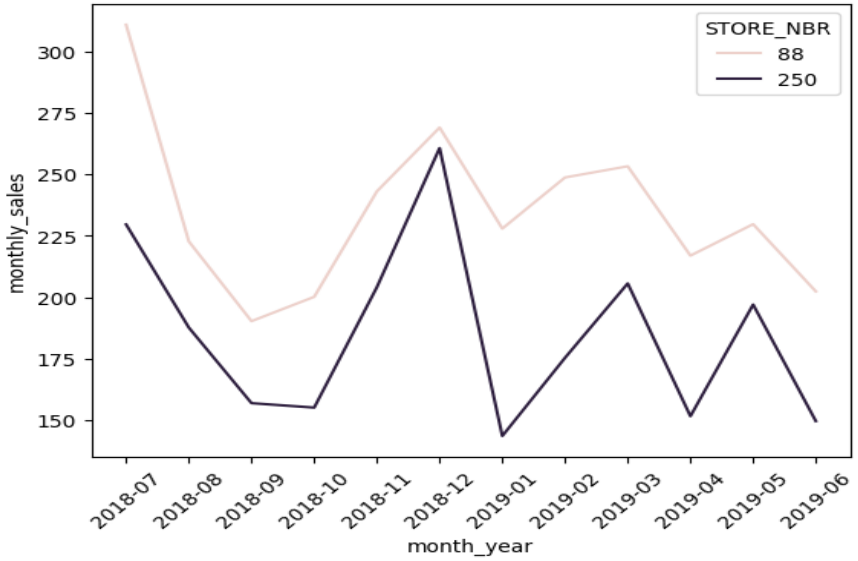
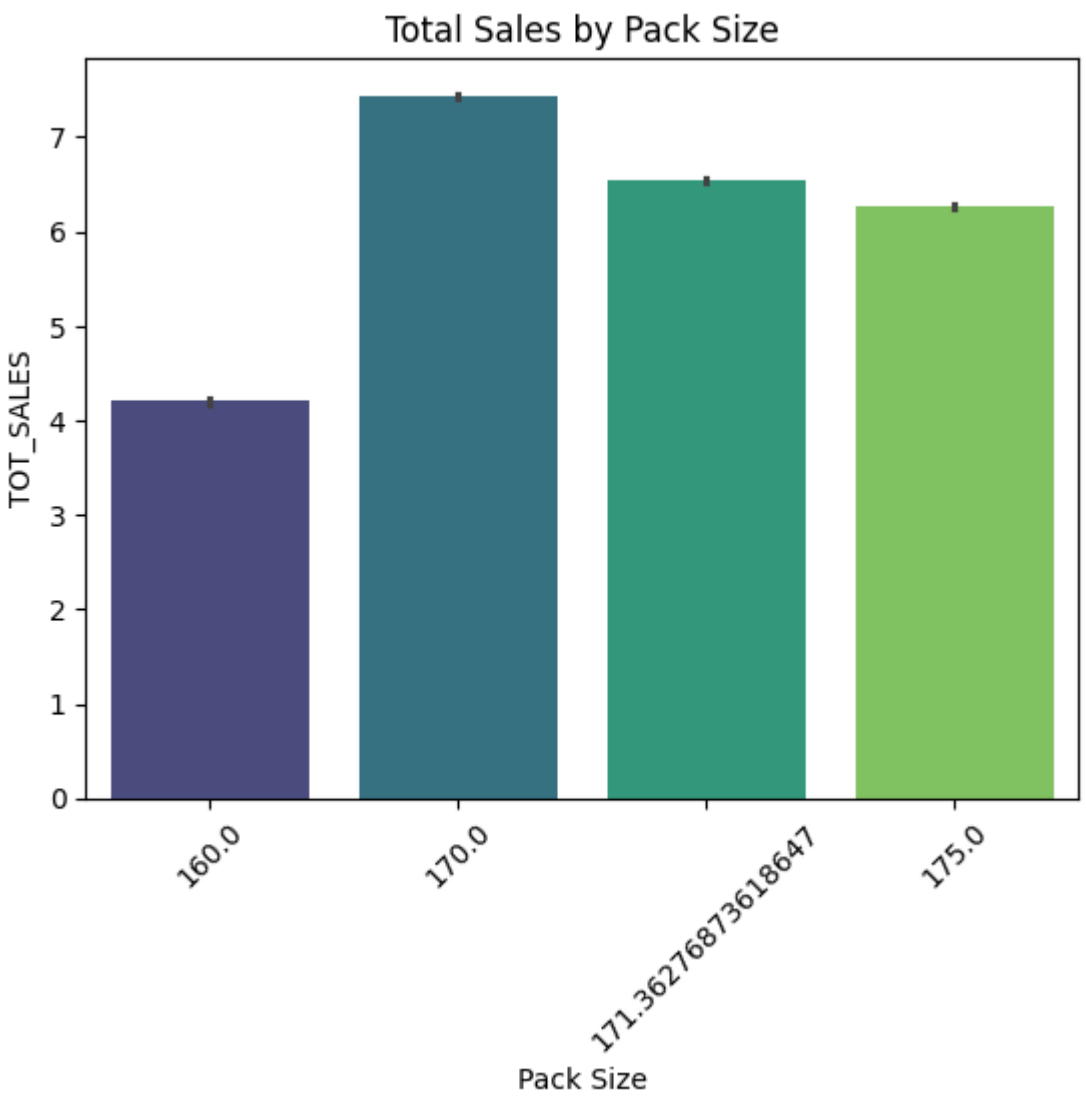
Store 77 follows the trend of control store 115, but the control has higher absolute sales; the trial shows positive uplift relative to its own baseline

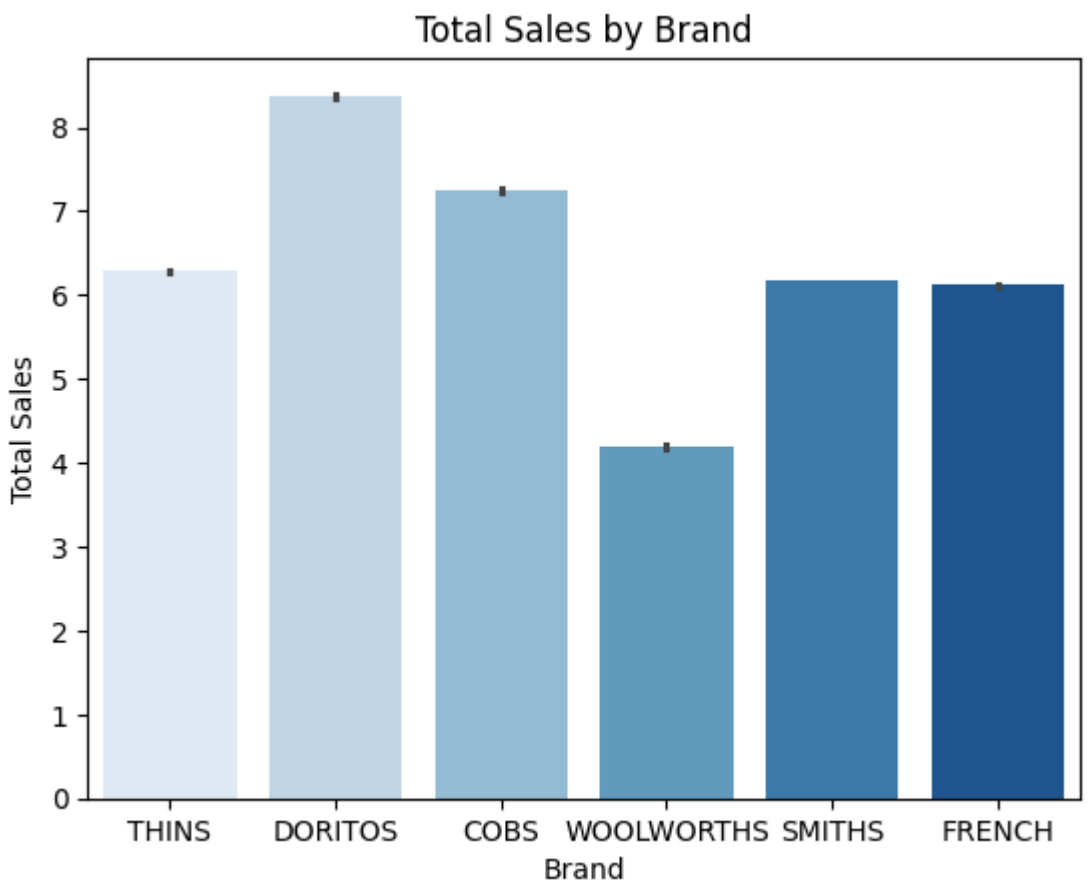
Trial Store 86 & Control store 246



Trial Store 88 & Control Store 250







Pack size 170 leads in sales volume, while pack size 160 contributes the least.

- Top Brand: Doritos has the highest total sales, making it the leading revenue contributor among all brands.

- Lowest Brand: Woolworths recorded the lowest total sales, contributing the least to overall revenue.

High Demand: Doritos corn chips across different flavors consistently show higher sales, indicating strong consumer preference for this product line.

Recommendations

Leverage High-Uplift Stores:

1. Replicate successful trial initiatives from store 86, which had the highest uplift, across other stores to maximize impact.

Customer-Focused Strategy:

1. Prioritize engagement and tailored promotions for top revenue-contributing customers.
2. Consider loyalty programs or targeted offers for Mainstream segment customers.

Product & Inventory Optimization:

1. Ensure high-demand pack sizes (170) and Doritos flavors are well-stocked.
2. Review underperforming pack sizes (160) and low-sales brands (Woolworths) for inventory or promotion adjustments.

Actionable Next Steps

- Focus marketing campaigns on high-demand products and top customers.
- Monitor trial stores over time to ensure uplift is sustained.
- Consider testing similar trials in stores with low baseline performance.
